

Ulster Farmers Open 47th Annual Fair Today At State Armory Here

Program in Charge of 4-H Club for Inaugural of Exhibition Featuring Produce, Flowers, Cattle and Handiwork.

TO LAST FOUR DAYS

Prominent Speakers Scheduled to Talk on Topics of Interest to Farmers and Others.

The 47th annual fair of the Ulster County Agricultural Society opened at the state armory, Manor avenue, at one o'clock today. The exhibition to remain open until 11 p. m. Thursday.

Today was 4-H Club day and all children as well as club members were admitted free. The young people of the 4-H clubs had a full program for the day, among other things some 20 judging contests being scheduled, the first, vegetable grading, starting at 10 o'clock this morning. There are also a dozen demonstration booths and more than 600 different exhibits of work done by club members. An interesting feature is the contest for the young women, to see who can put up the best dinner, to serve six people, the cost to be limited to $1.60. Wednesday morning there will be several cattle judging contests and a showmanship contest.

Home Bureau Exhibit. The Home Bureau exhibit has been arranged in the lounge near the entrance to the armory. In addition to exhibits illustrating the many activities of Home Bureau and interesting feature will be talks by well known local authorities. The speakers this afternoon were Sherwood Larned, who discussed "Flowers and Foliage," Mrs. William Plank of Marlborough, "Writing Women's News Club Articles," and Stuart Parks, Kingston playground supervisor, who told about "Public Playgrounds."

Six talks are scheduled for Wednesday, as follows: 10 a. m., Countrywomen of the World; Mrs. Edward Young; 11 a. m., "Better Reading," Mrs. Willard Jenkins; 2 p. m., "Preserving and Restoring Ulster County Colonial Stone Houses," Myron Teller; 3 p. m., "Better Kitchens," Mrs. Harry M. Ennes; 4 p. m., "Wedding Dresses of Other Days," Mrs. DeWitt Crowell; 4:30 p. m., "1935 Fall Ensemble," Mrs. Roger H. Loughran.

Farm Bureau Exhibit. The Farm Bureau has an exhibit near the entrance of the drill hall, showing samples of fruit injured by insects and diseases, weed control, etc. Of particular interest are samples of 38 New York state weeds, the plants themselves being shown with names and methods of eradication.

Nice Showing of Cattle. There is a nice exhibit of cattle, in charge of Dr. H. F. Fleming of Gardiner. The Ulster County Holstein Club shows a composite herd selected from the herds of various breeders in the county. Individuals showing Holsteins are John H. Beatty & Son, Kingston; John Sloan and B. H. Decker, Walkkill; Millard Davis, Kerhonkson; C. L. Schoonmaker, Gardiner. A. H. Chambers of Kingston shows Guernseys; Ulster Dorr Farms, Highland, show Jerseys; Arrahs are shown by Joshua Birch, Walkkill; Babcock Farms, Kingston, and C. L. Allen, Kingston. R. D. These are in addition to stock shown by 4-H Club members. There are in the neighborhood of 100 head of cattle in all.

Poultry Exhibit. The poultry exhibit is not large, especially compared with the old days, when exhibitors who made a business of it, would bring in chickens by the carload, but Franklin Reider of Accord, who is in charge of the exhibit, said that there were about 60 pens shown and some fine birds were being exhibited. White Leghorns were the outstanding breed in the exhibit, but there were perhaps a half dozen other breeds shown, including Jersey lants, Barred Rocks, Rhode Island Reds, etc. Poultry will be judged Wednesday morning. There are in addition to some 35 pens shown by 4-H Club members.

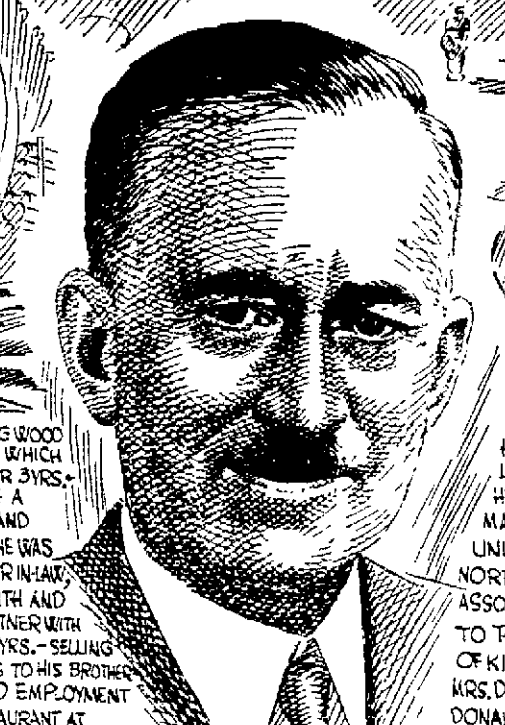

Fruits and Vegetables. There is a good display of fruit and vegetables, especially of apples. In addition to the open classes there are the exhibits shown in the various Grange displays and in the garden exhibit of the 4-H Club. Some nice specimens are shown in the latter exhibit.

The Grange Exhibits. Eleven Granges have entered exhibits this year, in addition to an exhibit by the Future Farmers of America, the Pomona Grange and the Highland Juvenile Grange. The Highland Juvenile Grange: The Highland, Flatkill, Accord, Stone Ridge, Ulster, Huzaroot, Albany, Kingston, Rosendale and Lake Katrine. All are different and it is interesting to compare the results obtained as members of the various Granges have expressed their idea of how a Grange booth ought to be arranged and decorated.

The Grange Plays. Six of the Granges in the county will present plays on the nights of the fair. L. C. Barnes of New Paltz, who has had charge of this feature (Continued on Page 14)

New Commercial Electric Rates Filed By Central Hudson

Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation announced today that it has just filed with the Public Service Commission a new commercial electric rate affecting reductions amounting to $92,000. This latest reduction is in addition to the reduction of $113,000 announced last week for Central Hudson's residential electric customers, $4,000 for gas customers, and to the $42,000 reduction to commercial customers announced in May of this year, making a total voluntary rate reduction by this company of $253,000 in 1935.

Commenting on the new commercial rate, A. L. Collican, district manager, stated that the principal change in the new rate will be a reduction of $1.50 per kilowatt demand for the first five kilowatts of demand, which means a saving to all commercial customers.

New Rate
The new rate as filed by Central Hudson, to become effective on September 1, is as follows:
$4.00 per kilowatt for the first 2 kilowatts of demand.
$2.00 per kilowatt for extra demand.

25c per Kwhr. for the first 200 kilowatt-hours per kilowatt of demand, but not more than 1250 kilowatt-hours.
2c per kilowatt-hour for the next 2500 kilowatt-hours.
12c for additional usage.

No bill except that for the minimum charge shall exceed 9c per kilowatt-hour in the larger communities.

Minimum bill—$1.00.
Rate Reductions Since 1930 Total $1,670,000

This reduction in charges to Central Hudson customers is the most recent of a long series of voluntary rate reductions made by Central Hudson starting in 1924. Rate reductions have been made every year since 1920 and aggregate $1,670,000, or an average of approximately $200,000 per year during that period.

Addis Ababa, Aug. 20 (AP)—Reports from the interior said today that the natives there were becoming restive because Emperor Haile Selassie continued to hope for peace instead of starting war to rebuff the Italian threat.

The natives in those regions were said to resent the Emperor's conciliatory policy and to be asking that hostilities commence immediately.

The army is dispatching reinforcements daily to the frontier along the Italian colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea.

Many soldiers are drilling in the capital. The Ethiopian guards at the United States legation have recently been equipped with the latest model American rifles and bayonets. They are the envy of the Ethiopian soldiers.

The Emperor, who is conducting the country's business almost single-handed, is showing signs of the terrific strain under which he has been working for the last six months. He looks tired, thin, and careworn, yet he remains calm.

Addis Ababa was interested in a message from Brussels saying the United States government had refused to issue export licenses to munitions destined for Ethiopia.

Ethiopia hurried its war preparations in secret today.

A cartridge factory was completed in Addis Ababa to remedy the army's serious weakness—lack of ammunition.

Troop movements were carefully camouflaged. Army divisions were ordered to keep away from the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railroad. Ethiopia's only modern means of communication with the outside world, large concentrations of military forces were not permitted close to the capital.

Outwardly, there were few signs of mobilization. In conformity with Emperor Haile Selassie's order that there should be no evidence of armaments until all peace efforts had been exhausted.

Nevertheless, here and there scattered tribesmen were seen armed with antiquated rifles. The cartridges frequently were too large for the barrels.

Children, too, were getting on their own drills with improvised javelins, swords and daggers.

War in Foreseeable

Paris, Aug. 20 (AP)—Italy acknowledged today the inevitability of war in East Africa, with what amounted to defiance to other powers to interfere with its campaign.

Italy openly expressed skepticism that "diplomatic channels" would stop Mussolini from "disarming" Britain.

British Ambassador in Italy, Sir Horace Rumbold, today said that the British government was determined to oppose Italian aggression.

Raps Mayors' Group For Stand Against Volunteer Firemen

Seth T. Cole In His Annual Report at 63rd Annual Convention Of The State Firemen's Association Attacks Conference of Mayors.

Albany, Aug. 20 (Special)—Sharp criticism of the attitude of the New York State Conference of Mayors and its legislative committee toward the interests of the volunteer firemen, was voiced at Greenport today by Seth T. Cole, deputy state commissioner of taxation and finance.

Submitting his annual report as chairman of the Law Committee, of the State Firemen's Association, at its 63rd annual convention of that organization in Greenport, Suffolk county, Mr. Cole declared that the principal opposition to legislative proposals in behalf of the volunteer firemen at the 1935 session of the Legislature, came from the Mayors' group.

"Of the nine program bills sponsored by the firemen on which the conference registered itself, it filed briefs in opposition to all," Commissioner Cole said, "although it later withdrew its opposition to some of them."

Particularly sharp was his criticism for its stand against a bill which would have increased the benefits payable to volunteer firemen injured in the performance of their duty. The present maximum of $200 for hospital and medical expenses would have been raised to a maximum of $500, and the allowance for loss of earnings would have been increased.

Senate, House Conferees Reach Final Agreement On 250 Million Tax Bill

Committee Leaves Out New Inheritance Levies Proposed by the President and Would Raise Estate Rates.

SUMMARY OF BILL

Borah and McCarran Amendments Eliminated From the Measure; New Taxes on Gifts.

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—Senate and House conference committee members today reached a final agreement on the $250,000,000 tax bill, leaving out the new inheritance levies proposed by President Roosevelt.

Instead of the inheritance taxes, the bill agreed upon would increase the existing estate tax rates and levy new taxes on the recipients of gifts.

The bill was summed up this way by Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the conference committee:

Graduated corporation income taxes 12 1/2 per cent on the first $2,000 of income, 13 per cent on income from $2,000 to $10,000; 14 per cent on $10,000 to $40,000 and 15 per cent on all over $40,000.

Capital stock tax. Increased from the present $1 per $100 to $1.40.

Excess profits. Permit new declaration of capital value and then tax at 6 per cent those profits between 10 and 15 per cent and tax at 12 per cent the profits over 15 per cent.

Individual income surtaxes: Start levies, as in the house bill, at a tax of 31 per cent on income from $50,000 to $55,000, increasing rates to a maximum of 75 per cent on the excess over $55,000.

Intercorporate dividends. A 90 per cent exemption, instead of the existing 100 per cent exemption, on dividends received by one corporation from another. This rate would amount to about 14 per cent.

Estate taxes. Raising from 2 per cent on the first taxable $10,000 to 70 per cent on the excess over $50,000.

Gift taxes. Approximately three-quarters of the estate levies.

The Borah amendment, forbidding future issues of federal tax-exempt securities, and the McCarran amendment, repealing much of the silver purchase act, were eliminated.

Other Measures
Democratic leaders sought hopefully today to obtain conference committee agreements on two other important bills and continue the swift run toward adjournment started yesterday.

Particularly were they trying for an agreement on the utilities bill which has been deadlocked for weeks in conference between the Senate and House. Some feared that unless a break came today the measure might not pass this session.

The amendments to the Tennessee Valley Authority Act was the other measure leaders hoped to bring out of conference.

Both chambers were in high gear yesterday to complete action on the banking and railroad pension bills and send them to the White House.

Adjustment by the conferees of House and Senate differences over the legislation was regarded by leaders as a major step toward quick adjournment.

The House will act first on the conferees' report. Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee estimated it would be Thursday before the agreement could be called up on the House floor.

Asked why the inheritance tax was left out, he acknowledged that the President wanted it included but added:

"It looked like three of the Senate conferees—I won't tell you who they were—were going to hold out against the inheritance tax. We would have had to report a disagreement, so we finally yielded."

"Of course, if we think it is necessary we can do something about it next session."

These were Harrison's estimates of the revenue the bill would produce:

Corporation income .. $ 25,000,000
Capital stock .. 44,000,000
Income surtax .. 40,000,000
Excess profits .. 10,000,000
Estate-tax .. 202,000,000
Inter-corporate dividends .. 28,000,000

Total .. $249,000,000

In addition, the House passed the Guffey bituminous coal stabilization bill and sent that to the Senate for debate today. The Guffey measure is at the top of the President's list of legislation he wants enacted before adjournment.

Supporters predicted the Senate would approve it quickly, but others were not so certain. It received a majority of only 26 votes in the House yesterday. Opponents contended it is unconstitutional.

Other legislative action yesterday included House approval of a conference report on the $614,000,000 rivers and harbors bill and Senate approval of the Fraser-Loomis farm conservation measure.

Confidential friends of the pending bill, reading the Federal Reserve system with new powers over the nation's credit resources, predicted President Roosevelt would sign the measure promptly.

Unidentified Man Found Shot Through The Head On Tucker's Corner Road

Karpis Now Threatens The Life of J. E. Hoover

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—Alvin Karpis, ranked public enemy No. 1, has threatened the life of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the "G" men long hunting him. Newspapers were told at the department of justice today that the threat was contained in a letter to Hoover from Ohio about a month ago.

Hoover himself declined to say anything on the subject. Sought by federal agents since the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul, Minn., in January, 1934, Karpis was last seen by officers when he escaped from a trap in an Atlantic City hotel early last winter.

He and Harry Campbell at that time abandoned their rifle friends, Wynona Butte and Delores Delaney, who now are serving sentences.

Karpis is the only important member of his notorious kidnap and bank bandit gang who has escaped the government crime hunters.

Three members have met death as guns barked in Chicago and Florida.

190 Placed in Jobs Here During July by Employment Office

Preliminary Statistics of Public Employment Office Activities Throughout State Show Gains Over June Both In Job Openings and Placements.

July National Reemployment Service activities in Ulster county resulted in jobs for 190 persons, J. B. Curry, manager of the NRS office in Kingston announced today.

At the same time, preliminary statistical reports of the activities of the NRS and the New York State Employment Service for the entire state showed increases during July. Total openings reported during July over June, both in job openings and placements, according to Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews. These increases, it was noted, occurred during a time of seasonal decline in industrial activities.

Industrial Commissioner Andrews, however, cautioned those who would interpret them as a measure of employment, economic, business and industrial conditions throughout the state.

"The statistics furnished by the public employment offices differ materially in economic content and significance from the payroll and employment releases made public each month by the Department of Labor's Division of Statistics and Information. Public employment offices can base their period reports only on that portion of employers and unemployed of the state who make use of their facilities."

Compared with June, the 79 adult and 14 junior offices of the New York State Employment and National Reemployment Services reported a combined gain of 1,814 job openings and 2,414 placements during July. Total openings received rose from 20,627 to 21,841, and total placements effected from 15,535 to 16,252. An increase in the ratio of placements to openings, which was 78 to 100 in June and 84 to 100 in July, may also be regarded as significant.

New applications received during July totaled 92,695, as compared with 66,259 in June, a 40 per cent increase, due principally to progress made in the occupational registration of relief recipients by the public employment offices. This accelerated enrollment of relief clients, as pointed out by a rise in the ratio of new applications to placements.

In July, five new applicants were added to the number available for employment for every placement made, as compared with a ratio of 4 to 1 in June.

Preliminary July figures for New York city offices show the annual rate of increase in new applications, which jumped to a total of 40,224 from 14,573 in June, due to the inclusion of a large group of June relief roll registrants.

June relief roll registrants, however, and placements, compared with the rest of the state, showed a decline in the metropolitan area as compared with the rest of the state. A decline was reported in the city during June numbered 7,457 compared with 7,744 in June and placements totaled 5,275 as against 5,244 for June.

Hopson Tells of Perils
Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—Threatened with contempt proceedings if he did not answer questions, Howard C. Hopson agreed today that he and his family had drawn profits of $2,747,000 from the Associated Gas and Electric system from 1928 to 1932 inclusive. The testimony was given in the Senate today in connection with presidential impeachment proceedings.

Senator Charles McNary (D., Wash.) Hopson acknowledged that during half the time covered, the utility system under him was not paying dividends on the stock. The earnings were made by private companies owned by him and his family, which sold services to companies in the system. It was the first time he had agreed publicly to his profits.

Body Found Crumpled Up In Orchard Monday On Frank Gaffney Farm

Fingerprints Sent To Department of Justice at Washington and To New York and Albany Bureaus of Missing Persons.

SECOND MYSTERY

No Connection Made By Authorities Between the Silba Murder Which Still is Unsolved.

The body of an unidentified man found along the roadway on the Frank Gaffney farm on the Tucker's Corner road in the town of Lloyd gives the Ulster county authorities a second unsolved murder mystery. The body, that apparently of a man of Italian extraction, was found Monday morning by Thomas Gaffney, son of the owner of the farm, when he went to pick apples in the orchard.

At first it was believed the man had been the victim of a hit and run driver, but further examination showed that he had been murdered, probably at some distance from the spot where the body was found, and the body tossed into the orchard from a car. There was a bullet wound in the head. The shot had been fired from the rear and penetrated the head coming out in front. It was from a .38 caliber gun.

The only other marked body was a discolored left eye, probably caused by the shot through the head.

Monday morning when young Gaffney, 20 years old, went to the apple orchard to pick fruit he came upon the body. At that time it was believed the man had been hit by a car as the body lay some 20 feet off the road down the bank in the orchard.

State police were notified of the findings of the body and Sergeant Lockhart and Trooper L. Baker at Highland were notified. Corporal N. Baker and Trooper R. Klen at New Paltz were also called and Coroner Leston DuBois of New Paltz was summoned. The examination by the officers was conducted in secret and no information was given out at the time. The body was removed to the DuBois undertaking parlors at New Paltz where an autopsy was performed by Dr. Joseph Jacobson of Kingston and Dr. W. S. Branner of New Paltz. The result of the autopsy was not revealed but it was learned that death had been from a bullet and that it was a case of murder.

The Gaffney farm is located on the Tucker's Corner road, a cross road which connects the Highland-Clintondale road with the Newburgh-Monkton state route at Plattekill. The farm is located about a mile from the Highland-Clintondale road.

From the condition of the body it appears that death was but a short time prior to the finding of the body and the murder is believed to have taken place some time Saturday or Sunday. The fact that there were no signs of a scuffle or an attack at the place where the body was found indicates that the actual murder took place at some distant point and the body was brought to the spot and thrown along the road.

Notice of the murder was not given the sheriff's office until about noon and District Attorney Glenn B. Murray was also notified. Deputy Sheriff Abraham Molinsky was sent to the scene by the district attorney and photographs were also made of the body and the scene where it was found.

Description Broadcast
A description of the man was broadcast and every effort was made to ascertain whether the body tallied with any person recently reported missing. A check up was made of the bonding houses in the lower portion of the county to learn whether any person was missing but this effort met with no success. It is pointed out the murder took place at a cross point and that the victim may have been killed in New York city or New Jersey and brought to the scene and dumped in Ulster county.

The victim was a man apparently of Italian extraction, about 40 years old, 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighing about 160 pounds. His hair was slightly gray at the temples and rather thin on top. He was dressed in a black and white check shirt, light gray pants, black and white shoes and white socks.

Fingerprints were taken by Deputy Sheriff Abraham Molinsky and Sergeant Lockhart and these prints were forwarded to the department of justice at Washington and also to the New York and Albany bureaus of missing persons. It is hoped that identification of the man can be made through the fingerprinting. This method was successful in making identification of the first murder victim, which found the official a few weeks ago when a man was found in the river at Westwood.

The murder is still unsolved but the officials have identified the man as John "Joe the Butcher" Silba of (Continued on Page 14)

Kingston Printer Makes Good in Utah

Daniel Williams of Furnace street, one of the veteran printers of Kingston, has received a most interesting letter from another of Kingston's old time printers who is now conducting a very successful printing plant in Utah. The letter is from J. Oliver Woody, formerly of Kingston and who will be remembered by the older generation of printers as having learned his trade and worked for some time on the Kingston Argus at the time Mr. Williams was also employed there. After learning his trade in Kingston Mr. Woody worked as a journeyman printer in the west and became so interested in that country that he returned there when he ceased his employment for the late Dr. David Kennedy. It was while traveling through the west as advertising agent for the Dr. David Kennedy company of Kingston that he became interested in the west. On his return to Utah he settled in Ogden where he now operates the J. O. Woody Printing Company. He reports business good in Utah and in his letter states that he has recently completed a million run of labels for the Utah Liquor Commission. His shop is equipped with automatic presses capable of turning out 160,000 of the labels a day. Mr. Woody is in the best of health and reports that he accompanies his son on fishing trips when business in the shop is not too pressing. His many friends in Kingston will be delighted to learn of his success in the printing field.

HIGHLAND HAS EMERGENCY RESERVOIR IN HUDSON'S POND

The Highland water works announces that through the courtesy of Mrs. L. L. Lefler, Hudson's pond has been made available as an additional emergency water supply. The water company remarks that it must resort to an emergency supply, but due to very dry conditions and the fact that the sewer construction has wasted large quantities of water through broken mains and service pipes this is made necessary. The water supply from the Schantz pond gave out last week and Sunday the additional supply was used. The reservoir is kept in reserve in case of fire.

Governor Pleads With Labor and Employes Regarding Recovery

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—Declaring that the "rapidity and permanence of our industrial recovery" hangs in the balance, governor Herbert H. Lehman pleaded today for complete cooperation and understanding between organized labor and employers.

The chief executive, speaking at the annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor, also lashed at "defeatists" who claim "our representative form of Democratic government is not sufficiently plastic and flexible to protect and advance the interests of the great mass of our people."

Labor, he told the delegates, constitutes the largest group of our population but it cannot afford to "disregard other groups."

The present situation particularly merits and demands not only effort and thought, but sacrifice, patriotism and devotion in a common cause," he said. "I use the words 'common cause' because the interests of all groups are so definitely interdependent. No one section, no one group may profit at the expense of others. Neither social demands nor economic considerations will tolerate selfish advantage at this time."

"We stand together as a people and we will prosper together or suffer. There must be the fullest degree of cooperation between all groups. Real cooperation can come only through a broad, mutual understanding which will recognize economic conditions and interests on the one hand and the demands for sound standards of living and a reasonable share in the returns which increased and improved productivity make possible on the other."

Prosperity and contentment, the governor said, must run both to the worker and to the employer as "neither can hope for any length of time to profit at the expense of the other."

"Cooperation and understanding between organized labor and employers and between both of them and government and the consuming public will largely affect the rapidity and permanence of our industrial recovery."

In hitting at what he termed the "defeatists," Mr. Lehman cited legislation passed by the last session of the legislature "to increase and strengthen the legal rights and to advance the social welfare of the wage earners of our state."

He explained that the new laws had been passed through cooperation on the part of both Democratic and Republican legislators and asserted the measures "serve as a complete answer to those of our citizens who would adopt a defeatist attitude and who question the availability of government as the principal channel through which social reform and social progress can be peaceably secured."

The measures listed by the governor included unemployment insurance, changes in the workmen's compensation laws, shortening of the work week for women in industry, reduction in the working hours of boys between 16 and 18 years of age, state regulation of industrial home work and the banning of sweat shops, outlawing of the "yellow dog" contract, unemployment relief and strengthening of the state labor law prescribing the payment of prevailing rate of wages.

Justice again falls the poor. A vagrant asked for a life sentence, all the judge would give him was 30 days.

Harnett Pleads Case For Auto Insurance

Greenport, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—Charles A. Harnett, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, pleaded today for the enactment of a compulsory automobile insurance law for the protection of victims and dependents of motor vehicle accidents.

Harnett's plea made in an address before the annual convention of the New York State Firemen's Association, was preceded by a review of the magnitude of the automobile accident problem.

"From the night of the Boston Tea Party to the conclusion of the World War in 1918," he said "America's losses in all its wars were less than 250,000 lives. For the ten years 1925-1934, inclusive, more than 300,000 persons lost their lives through automobile accidents in this country."

"Let us get closer to home. The World War took the lives of 5,194 soldiers from the State of New York. During the two years of 1933 and 1934 a total of 5,368 lives were lost in automobile accidents on the highways of this state."

"And, in addition to that very unpleasant comparison, there is nothing of comfort in the fact that the first six months of 1935 shows an increase of 16 motor vehicle deaths as against the same period in 1934—or 1,199 as compared with 1,183—with a drop of about 2,000 in the number of motor vehicle accidents in the compared periods."

Commissioner Harnett said that he did not predict that compulsory automobile insurance would lessen the number of motor vehicle accidents but "it should protect the widow, the orphan and the permanently disabled victim against the ravages of absolute poverty or the alternative of becoming a public charge."

FRIENDS OF FLYING.

It will take time for Americans to get used to the fact that Will Rogers and Wiley Post are gone.
 The crack-up in Alaska which took their lives took one of the country's most useful airmen and one of its friendliest and best-loved citizens.
 The two men were together on a vacation jaunt in Alaska. Apparently they were enjoying it thoroughly, and the public was enjoying reports of it in Rogers' daily newspaper dispatches.

There is no way of measuring what Will Rogers did for commercial aviation. In recent years he did practically all of his traveling by air, relating his experiences in his little column, praising pilots and ships, boosting aviation constantly through his own enthusiasm and example.

Post, too, did much for aviation.
 His flights around the world—one of them made alone—and his attempts to cross the continent through the stratosphere were among the more spectacular, but through them, and through much other flying he did, additional knowledge was added to aviation science.

The tragic death of these two men, in an airplane crash, comes as a personal loss to all Americans.
 Aviation, which they gallantly promoted, will go on.

BOTULINUS DEATH

If you get a batch of ptomaine germs in your system from eating spoiled food you are in for a mean few days or more. You may be very sick indeed. You may possibly die. But the chances are if you call the doctor quick and obey his directions, your life will still be safe.
 But if you get a batch of botulinus germs inside the effect is different.
 No matter how soon the doctor is called he is probably too late. When bad old botulinus gets a grip on a human frame, death is almost always knocking on the door.

The botulinus germ usually gets in through canned string beans, though he has been known to enter by means of beautiful jars of home-canned peas, corn or cauliflower.
 You cannot always tell him by the swelling of the can or the spoiled look or smell of the food. The food may appear perfect, but have death in it. The only way to make the non-acid foods safe is by steam pressure cooking, following the rules closely. Cold pack is fine for peaches and pears and tomatoes.
 Beans, peas and corn may be safely dried and prove delicious. But if you are not equipped to can by steam pressure and you value your life, don't can peas and beans.

THE FORD WORLD

The rotunda of the Ford exhibit at the Century of Progress Expon-sition is being rebuilt at Dearborn, Mich. It is hoped that it will be ready for visitors late in the fall.
 The most popular of the exhibits at Chicago are to be kept on there—the Ford world, the circular murals of the industry and the animated map of raw-material sources and markets. There are to be two wings, one with a theater for motion pictures and salesmen's meetings;
 the other with display cases from coast to coast. The machinery which operates the lights will be placed in the rotunda.

It is interesting to know that this part of the Fair which was so attractive to visitors will be attractive to those who are to be the future of the world. But it calls attention even more vividly to the fundamental usefulness of such exhibitions as the Century of Progress.
 They bring together in one place objects of interest which otherwise require one to travel pretty well over the civilized world to see. An expensive year or dozen years of travel are condensed into a few days of concentrated sight-seeing. Granted that the traveler gets more out of who wish to try on tomorrow.

visiting a country or an industry than out of seeing its small exhibit at a fair, the fact remains that most of us cannot get around the world to see everything we would like.
 The Exposition gives us a world in miniature. There may not be quite so much in San Diego as there was in Chicago, but what is there is worth going a long way to see.

THE HUMAN ICICLE

The movie scenario writer who has offered himself as the subject for a strange medical experiment was one of 180 volunteers. The test is the same one which Dr. Ralph S. Willard has been trying with monkeys, freezing them, keeping them for a time at a temperature well below zero, then reviving them.
 One monkey so treated died. Another lived. The doctor believes that the freezing treatment will overcome tuberculosis and perhaps cancer.

The human subject in this case—
 if the experiment is permitted to go on—hopes to make some discoveries for himself quite apart from the doctor's research. He hopes to be able to tell the world something about the hereafter when he is revived. If the experiment is successful, perhaps public doubts will be forgotten. As it is, public opinion is not likely to approve experimenting with death. Many will question whether the young man has a right to take this deliberate chance with his life, even in the cause of science. Yet other researchers in the past have exposed themselves to dread diseases—and have died as heroes—in order to find the cause, prevention and possible cure.

THE LIQUID DIET

You have eaten something that was tainted or which upset your digestive system and have had a severe attack of vomiting or diarrhoea.
 Naturally you do not want any food;
 the thought of food distresses you.

This is when you should go on a "liquid diet."

Or perhaps you are recovering from an illness and are not much interested in food; the liquid diet is what you need as you must have food to restore your strength.

The liquid diet is just liquid foods, and is valuable, because as all foods before they can be used and absorbed, taking foods already in the liquid form means just that much less work for the weakened digestive system.

Liquid foods are usually given in small amounts and more often than when the patient is well; about one glassful every two or three hours.

Naturally although the food is in the liquid form, it must be nourishing if the patient is to maintain and increase in strength; milk, cream, raw eggs being the best liquid foods.

When the patient cannot take much milk or cream, an eggnoo made up with syphon soda (purchased for about ten cents a quart at the drug store) instead of milk gives excellent results.

Other liquid foods are clear soups, cocoa, and malted milk. Meat juices supply necessary liquids and alloy hunger, but have less nourishment than milk, cream and eggs.

Fruit juices supply some nourishment but are more valuable in keeping the blood and tissues from getting too nearly acid; a condition which occurs during any wasting illness.

Dr. Jean Borger outlines the foods to be used in a fluid diet as follows:

1. Fruit juices.
2. Soups—broths, clear soups and cream soups.
3. Cereal gruels (thin).
4. Milk—plain or flavored, hot or cold, acid or fermented, malted milk, with addition of cereal gruel, beaten egg, cocoa.
5. Raw eggs—in combination with milk, fruit juices or other fluids.

Remember, the liquid diet is necessary only when the stomach or digestion is upset for a short time.
 When the patient becomes stronger,
 it is the solid diet which is added, which is added gradually, until the stomach is back to normal.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

STANLEY, it is morning. Emily Fulton's roommate at Alderson Juvenile Center, has not yet wakened.
 Stanley, who is at the great corner station, and is spending the Easter vacation. And it is because Judith's brother David is so fascinating and so easily irresponsible as Judith herself that Emily has forgotten all about cautious Eddie Barnes at home, and fallen in love with David. They are riding over the plantation, early on a typical Alabama morning.

Chapter Six
DANCE

"HENRY, didn't I hear that you spent Saturday night in jail?"
 asked David of a field hand.

Henry wriggled and grinned. "I swear to God, Miss David, I don't know who put that liquor in my bugsy. I went in to get some, and some black devil musta stuck it in while I was gone."

David shouted with mirth. "I don't doubt it in the least."

At the stables Emily met Stanley, the superb animal that was Judith's own mount, and saw the Irish setter, complacently presiding over seven beautiful puppies David lifted one of them into her arms, where it straightway burrowed into her coat and became motionless.

"They're by England's Blue Mist," he told her proudly. "The first pups

"I've just had an idea," David announced.

Judith grinned impudently. "No wonder you waked us up to tell us."
 He ignored her. "Why don't we have a dance tomorrow night as a farewell celebration? I want to dance with Emily."

"It's not a bad idea," Judith conceded, "but it was born too late. We can't get an orchestra on such short notice."

"We can use home talent. Caesar and Cicero and Damon."

Emily laughed. "Imagine dancing
 while Caesar and Cicero fiddled!
 Where did they get those names?"

David grinned. "The father of Caesar and Cicero is literary. They spell 'em 'Cesar' and 'Cicero'."

"And Damon," Judith remarked dryly, "is named—with good reason —for one of the neighborhood squires."

Emily flushed. She had heard of things like that, but they didn't seem

"Your nose is sunburned," David said tenderly.

he stired after he won the All-Age at Grand Junction last winter."

Emily's existence the mechanism of reproduction, even in animals, had never been a subject for mixed company. Puppies and colts, like babies, were Acts of God and not processes of nature. In the face of David's enthusiasm she was suddenly ashamed of that, too. She crooned over the puppy, her cheek against its half-hidden satin hair.

"If you'd let me," David's eyes were eager. "I'd like to give you one of them."

Frances Felton had never approved of dogs. They barked and broke things. Frances Felton in that instant was as remote as Heaven.

"Oh, David!" she whispered. But he seemed content with that.

They rode slowly back to the house, their horses rubbing shoulders along the narrow road. The sun had climbed higher, and the smell of warm earth and good leather was like a drug to their senses.

"Your nose is sunburned," David said tenderly. "I think it's going to peel." He leaned over and kissed it lightly.

She should have protested, because the road was unprotected. She said instead: "I've had the best time I ever had in all my life."

TWO nights later, after Emily and Judith had gone to bed, David softly opened the door of their room.

"Are you asleep?" he whispered hoarsely.

"Not now," Judith assured him, and snapped on the bed-light. "Is this going to be a bed-time story?"

He came in and sat on the foot of the bed, regarding them eagerly.
 Emily smiled at him, and wondered at the ease with which she had grown accustomed to having a man pop into her room at all hours. She had never known a family with so little regard for convention and conventional hours.

Last night, after having bid each other goodnight, they had congregated thirty minutes later, in various stages of undress, for an im-prompt game of poker on the livingroom floor.

Living so completely in the present as they did, they had no real interest or belief in the arrival of a tomorrow, and they never related.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
 WASHINGTON — Gratifying as the victory in the first Rhode Island district was to Republicans generally, party chieftains and other politicians here regard another phase of that contest as being far more significant.

It is that for the first time during the Roosevelt administration the "new deal" has been made an out-and out issue in a political campaign and has gone down in defeat.

Any claim that "as Rhode Island goes so goes the nation in 1936" is classed as so much hokum by the more astute political strategists.
 The big show is some 14 months off, and aside from the fact that the psychology of winning always is to be preferred, the victory means little else.

The issue was drawn clearly in Rhode Island, however. It was the "new deal." Most of the state issues were decided. Senator Gerry, a Democrat, admitted this himself when, in a post election statement, he was careful to say that the defeat was not to be construed as a blow at the state Democratic organization.

Put On Defensive
 AS ONE Republican politician pointed out in previous elections it always was difficult to figure out just how the G. O. P. candidate stood on the "new deal." Almost invariably they would declare themselves as ready to vote for those administration policies they believed right and against those they thought to be wrong.

The success of the Republican candidate in his denunciation of the "new deal" in Rhode Island in the face of the Democratic slogan of "Forward with Roosevelt or back to Hoover" may encourage his brethren to follow suit.

Republican leaders here so believe. The result in Rhode Island would seem to indicate that the voters, at least in New England, are not to be scared by such things;
 that the Democrats in 1936

Body of Wiley Post Is Flown to Oklahoma City For Funeral Services

Only a Few Persons on Hand to See the Big Ship Take Off for Middle West With Remains of Famous Aviator.

7½ HOUR FLIGHT

Body of Will Rogers in Mortuary Awaiting Public and Private Funeral Services.

Los Angeles, Aug. 20 (AP)—In the darkened cabin of a transport plane, the body of Wiley Post began its last aerial voyage today, while thousands waited to pay final homage to Will Rogers, who met death with the aviator in a tragic Alaskan air crash.

The body of the famous humorist lay in a Glendale mortuary awaiting public and private funeral services Thursday, as the huge plane sped toward Oklahoma City where services for Post will be held.

Aboard the plane, which took off at 5 a. m. (9 a. m. Standard Time) were Col. Clarence M. Young, airline executive, Joe Crosson, who brought the bodies from Alaska; William A. Winston, chief pilot; J. L. Fleming, junior pilot; T. W. Dowling, radio operator, and Engineer Tom Ward.

Only a few persons were present when the big ship took off from the airport—the same flying field from which Post started many aerial adventures including the one which ended in death for him and Rogers. The flight was expected to take about 7½ hours with refueling stops at Albuquerque, N. M., and probably Amarillo, Tex.

The 3,500-mile journey from the northern Alaska wilds where they crashed in Post's ship last Thursday ended just at dusk yesterday, when Pilot William Winston set down his big Pan American Airways transport at Burbank Airport.

First Disorders Reported
The arrival was attended by the first disorders since the bodies of the celebrated dead were brought from Point Barrow.

Police and the curious clashed at the airport after the officers had sought to halt the taking of photographs.

The incident delayed transfer of the bodies to the mortuary a half hour.

Joe Crosson, the Alaskan pilot who had brought out the bodies of his friends in less than two days, relinquished the controls for the flight from Seattle, which was broken by a brief fueling stop at Alameda.

The body of the famous humorist-actor will lie in state five hours, beginning at 7 a. m. Thursday in a grove of pine and olive trees at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in Glendale.

Private services were set for 2 p. m. in the Wee Kirk O' The Heather, and will be conducted by Dr. J. W. Writcomb Brougher, an old friend.

For the time being the remains will rest in a crypt at Forest Lawn, to be transferred by Mrs. Rogers, some later date to the family burial plot at Chelsea, Okla.

Mrs. Rogers, accompanied by her three children, Will, Jr., Mary and James, and by relatives from Oklahoma, including Rogers' sister, Mrs. Tom McSpadden of Chelsea, were en route to Los Angeles by train from the East.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 20 (AP)—The body of Wiley Post will lie in state two hours Thursday in the rotunda of Oklahoma's capitol before funeral services and burial in the red earth of the state which claimed the stocky little flier as one of its foremost citizens.

At noon here when funeral services will be held in Los Angeles for Will Rogers, Post's companion in disaster—Gov. E. W. Marland and his staff will direct public memorial services for the globe-circling aviator.

Religious services for Post will be held at the First Baptist Church here at 2 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

PROMOTED FOR RECOVERY OF POST AND ROGERS

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—Technical Sergeant Stanley R. Morgan was today promoted to master sergeant, the highest non-commissioned army rank.

Secretary Dern said the advancement was "in recognition of his initiative, resourcefulness, and fine judgment in organizing and directing the recovery of Rogers' and Post's bodies," taking them to the lonely Eskimo village, and transmitting to the outside world a detailed account of the Arctic tragedy near Point Barrow, Alaska.

Plenty of Gas

Camden, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—The Camden gas field now less than a year old has enough gas "under cap" to heat a city the size of Buffalo, according to drillers—but only two farmhouses are "tapped in" on it. The estimated production of the Ezra Meeker well—10,000,000 cubic feet a day—brought in last week is enough, the owner, John E. Coykendall of Rome, said today, to heat that city and a good part of Utica. He and other drillers placed the total now under cap in nine "pay wells" at 22,000,000 cubic feet a day. Drills are biting down elsewhere in the field, seeking other pockets.

Search Leader Thinks He Knows Spot Where Plane Fell in Flames

Glendo, Wyo., Aug. 20 (AP)—Walter Higley, leader of the search for three Indianapolis residents who disappeared in their airplane last Thursday, said today he was certain he had located the spot where the plane fell.

Higley reported he had charred a mile square on rugged Laramie Peak and is convinced the plane is within the area. The square embraces the rocky slope on which a plane, believed to be that of Burnside Smith, 47, Indianapolis Transit Company executive, was reported to have crashed in flames last Thursday night.

With Smith were Dick Arnett, Indianapolis airport manager and his bride, the former Eleanor Clark of Indianapolis, to whom he was married three weeks ago.

The three have been missing more than 100 hours on a trip that was a honeymoon for the Arnetts and a business mission for Smith. Arnett, experienced aviator and known as a cautious flyer, was pilot for the Transit Company president.

Higley, who started the search yesterday when he learned the plane was unaccounted for after it left Helena, Mont., last Thursday on a hazardous 800-mile flight to Denver, said today he is convinced the plane smashed into the peak, which juts like a gigantic thumb from the Eastern Wyoming plains 100 miles northwest of Cheyenne in Southeastern Wyoming.

The Denver pilot, representative of the same aviation firm in Denver with which Arnett was associated at Indianapolis, said ranchers pointed out a spot high up the peak where they saw a flash of flame last Thursday night during a storm.

The two-mile high summit, is accessible only on foot.

The search on foot was expected to require a full day but plans were made for the party to signal to watchers below if the wreckage is found.

The three were unreported after leaving Helena, Mont., last Thursday but no search was instituted until yesterday when friends said they were overdue. Higley, employed by the same firm as Arnett, went to Glendo to investigate.

A flash of flame in a fog last Thursday night, described by ranchers, convinced Higley that the plane had smashed into the forbidding north face of the mountain.

Laramie Peak lies in Southeastern Wyoming, about 40 miles to the southwest of Glendo. The mountain, standing alone, juts sharply into the clouds from surrounding plains and is known to residents as "the guide post in the desert."

Hopes For Peace In Face Of Hostilities

France and Great Britain indicated, as he quitted Paris, that Mussolini would use his "wealth of man power" in his "disarming" drive, ostensibly for the protection of Italian colonies.

The possibility of Italy's quitting the League of Nations "if she is shown to the door" was expected to intensify French efforts toward finding a solution of the problem but Aloisi predicted failure of the league's efforts as well as of diplomatic negotiations.

It was even uncertain whether Italy would be represented at the meeting of the league council September 4, Aloisi saying, "Our final decision will depend on the progress of affairs."

Fear was expressed by French officials that the Franco-Italian friendship, strengthened last January in a Rome conference between Mussolini and Laval, was shattered. They thought it unlikely that Italy would support France in view of France's attitude against Italy now.

Aligned with Italy, France felt safe against Germany. France had established a "little entente" of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania. A virtual military alliance was made with Russia. With Italy and Great Britain, France guaranteed Austria's independence.

Though allied with Great Britain, France knows that last June 16 Britain entered a naval pact with Germany. France cannot foresee how Italy will behave in central Europe if France and Britain join against Il Duce in his African colonies.

British Cabinet To Meet

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) London, Aug. 20.—The British cabinet, summoned to emergency session on the international crisis developing from the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia, is to determine Great Britain's policy in the imminent conflict.

The ministers, summoned from their vacations, will meet Thursday. Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, and Anthony Eden, minister for League of Nations affairs, already are working on an outline of policy to be submitted to Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, who is returning from Aix-les-Bains, France.

Informed sources said the policy would still support collective sanctions (measures against an aggressor nation) as an action by all nations in concert, but not as a lone hand affair.

It was reiterated that Great Britain and France had agreed informally to work in cooperation in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, but that there had been no formal agreement.

The British said they were without assurances that Italy will be represented in the Council of the League of Nations when it meets September 4. It was suggested that the league would try to force a full inquiry, perhaps through an investigating commission, of Italy's dispute with Ethiopia.

Newspaper headlines show that little if any progress has been made in outlining down America's horrible automobile accident toll—a toll that took 25,000 lives last year.

Warrants For Soldier

Harlan, Ky., Aug. 20 (AP)—Bench warrants for the arrest of Adj. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt, head of the Kentucky National Guard, were issued by Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert today immediately after an indictment charging criminal contempt was returned by the Harlan county grand jury. Commonwealth's Attorney Daniel Boone Smith said that since no bond was endorsed on the indictment, Gen. Denhardt, storm center of the controversy over the use of troops in the primary here, would be jailed immediately upon his arrest.

Every motorist should regard the war on the reckless and incompetent driver as a public duty. In which all should participate so far as they can.

Powers Outstrip Pre-War Days In Running Up Bills For Arms

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE.

Washington (AP).—The rapid acceleration of military preparations, particularly in the last two years, has piled upon the taxpayers of the seven great powers an armament burden much heavier than the staggering load of pre-world war days.

Expenditures for national defense by the seven powers in the financial year 1935-1936 are estimated at a grand total of $5,160,000,000, more than three times the $1,687,633,502 outlay for military preparedness by those nations in 1910. Moreover, war between Italy and Ethiopia would greatly increase this year's arms budget.

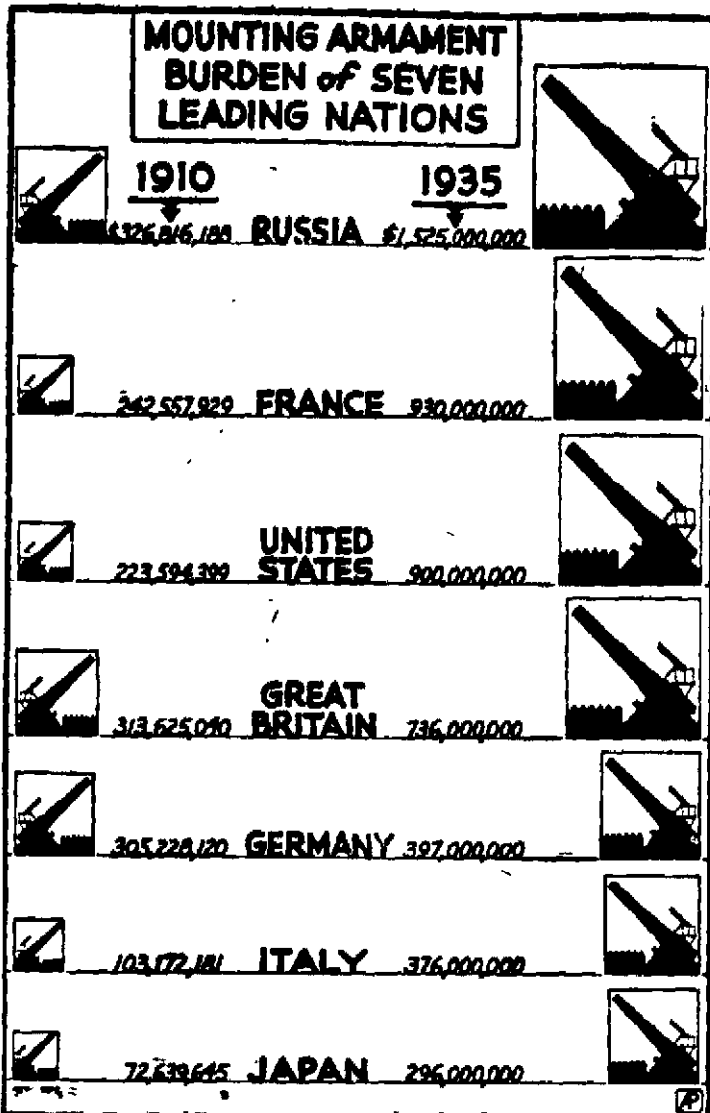

Agreements Failed
Since the autumn of 1933 when Germany withdrew from the disarmament conference and the League of Nations, attempts to reach an agreement on the limitation of armaments have been at a standstill. Nazi Germany's rearming, other frictions in Europe and the Far East have resulted in bigger appropriations or extraordinary credits for sea, land and air forces of all the great military countries and most of the secondary powers.

France, taking steps to be prepared "for any emergency," has a defense budget of $330,000,000 this year, almost four times its 1910 expenditures of $242,557,929. Germany, renouncing the Versailles treaty and its arms restrictions, expended an estimated $397,000,000 during the fiscal year ending April 1 last in laying the foundation for a formidable military machine. The outlay in 1910 for the Kaiser's mighty forces, exclusive of colonial troops, was $305,228,120.

Japan's Increase Fourfold
Since the beginning in 1931 of the Manchurian conflict, Japanese army and navy expenditures have more than doubled while the increase since 1910 is fourfold. Japan's military budget this year is estimated at $296,000,000, compared with $132,000,000 in 1931 and $72,639,645 in 1910.

Foreboding developments in Europe and the Orient caused Great Britain to increase its military expenditures in 1933 for the first time in more than six years. John Bull's defense costs, still advancing, are figured at $736,000,000 for the current fiscal year, or more than twice as much as the $313,625,040 outlay in 1910.

Estimates for Italy's defense budget were put at $375,000,000 for this year but these figures are expected to be thrown greatly out of balance by Italian East African preparations and the impending hostilities with Ethiopia. In 1910, the kingdom of Italy expended $103,172,181 for

This chart shows the estimated armament expenditure of the seven leading nations of the world for the fiscal year 1935-36, compared with the pre-war year of 1910. Russia leads with an estimated budget nearly five times that of the designated year under the czar. The estimate, originally made in rubles, which have no exchange value, is here translated as nearly as possible in dollars. International arms experts point out that the Italian figure probably will run well over the estimated budget because of the east African preparedness.

army and navy preparedness.

Red Army Hinge

Although reliable information with respect to the huge Red Army of Russia is difficult to obtain, arms experts of the League of Nations have estimated 1935 Russian defense expenditures at 6,500,000,000 rubles. While the ruble has no exchange value outside of Russia, Soviet military expenditures have been figured roughly as representing the equivalent of $1,525,000,000. Czarist Russia expended $328,816,138 for defense in 1910.

The United States, erecting the largest peace-time military establishment in its history, is allotting some $900,000,000 for defense purposes of all kinds this year. In 1910, this country expended $223,594,399 for national defense purposes.

While most of the great powers continue to rely mainly on strong navies and mass armies, particular efforts have been directed toward increasing the mobility of land forces and expanding aerial power. Increasingly large amounts of money are being expended for tanks, the motorization of cavalry and artillery and the development of high speed bombing planes with tremendous "striking" power.

N.Y. State Has 58,837 Licenses and Permits

That 42,457 licenses for beer, wine and liquor were in effect in the state of New York on August 1, 1935, and that 16,380 permits for alcohol, trucking, warehouses, drug stores, etc., have been granted in addition, a total of 58,837, was revealed yesterday by Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the State Liquor Authority, following an analysis of the licenses issued by his department.

License figures were reported from the three zones as follows:

Albany N.Y. Buffalo Total
Beer 5,699 15,239 20,938
Liquor 4,088 8,390 12,478
Wine 727 1,238 2,065
Permits 2,414 12,140 14,554

Total 58,837

It is noteworthy that the number of licenses for beer is greater than those issued for liquor and wine, the beer licenses totaling 24,568, while the liquor licenses number 15,801 and the wine licenses 2,088.

The reports are given by three zones. Albany, New York and Buffalo because of the fact that the state of New York has been divided into three zones for the purposes of controlling the liquor problems. The New York zone includes the five boroughs in Greater New York—Bronx, Kings, Queens, New York and Richmond, as well as Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk. According to the 1930 census figures, 7,905,001 of the state's 12,588,066 citizens live in the New York zone.

The New York area naturally has the largest preponderance of licenses. The analysis reveals that Nassau county has the greatest number of summer licenses, as there are many summer resorts located in the county. Again beer licenses were in greater demand than liquor.

The total number of summer beer licenses issued follows:

Eating places	126
Hotels	27
Clubs	5

Total 158

The liquor permits issued during the month of July for the summer period, were:

Vessels	90
Restaurants	52
Hotels	41
Clubs	4

Total 107

A section of the analysis shows that during the month of July 23,664 licenses were issued (when beer permits were renewed). There are now 67 licensed brewers in the state; 34 retail brewers and 669 beer wholesalers.

In addition 12,948 licenses for beer were granted to grocery stores, 141 to drug stores, 8,811 to eating places, 394 to hotels and 303 to clubs.

Seventeen liquor stores, 96 restaurants, 23 hotels and 10 clubs were given liquor licenses during July. Wine licenses and licenses to vessels were also given.

Mrs. A. Perry Loomis has been informed that Mrs. Gott, wife of the late Rev. P. R. Gott, former pastor of the West Shokan Baptist Church, is dead. She died at her daughter's home in Stamford, Conn. The many old time friends of Mrs. Gott will be sorry to know of her death.

The cafeteria supper held at Kinsey's farm house was well attended and enjoyed. Dart ball was played as one of the entertaining features. Proceeds were for the benefit of the Men's Club of the M. E. Church.

A number from this place attended the social and fair held at Superintendent and Mrs. Andrews home in Oliveros. The spacious lawn and lovely flower settings all around made it a very nice setting for the occasion. It was a success as a pleasant social hour and also from a financial standpoint. The proceeds went to the Oliveros church.

SHANDAKEN

Shandaken, Aug. 19.—The Boy Scouts of Shandaken went to Slide Mountain on Friday. There were three cars, one car being in charge of Edward G. West, one in charge of Ward C. Hummel, and one in charge of Burroughs. Blackhawk. They were to spend the night on top of the famous peak.

It is very seldom that a circus comes to this little town but it did on Thursday when Beverly Iron circuses pitched its tent on the grounds back of the schoolhouse. As usual the tent was crowded.

Quite a number of people from this place availed themselves of the Dollar Day sales in Kingston on Wednesday, among them, George M. Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Todd, Mrs. James S. Wood, Mr. L. P. Wiley, Mrs. C. E. Wood, Mrs. Lavin and Ford, Mrs. Mason Gorman, Mrs. and Mrs. Earl Nelson and Mrs. E. J. Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Perrier were Kingston shoppers on Thursday and Mr. and Mrs. H. Overstreet of Chicago were guests at the Spurgeons on Wednesday and Thursday.

HIS EXCELLENCY--

The Governor Of Vermont

Talking little but working hard, 66-year-old Gov. Charles M. Smith goes about his job without sensationalism. He has a keen sense of humor but seldom smiles. A wit reminiscent of another Vermont Republican, Calvin Coolidge Tail, thin, with wiry gray hair and deeply-lined face, he frequently is stern, especially when saying "No" to propositions he deems against Vermont's interests. Although it's his first term as governor, he is a veteran public official. He has been state representative, state senator, lieutenant governor. Before that, he was a banker. He is a widower. His term expires in January, 1937.

Those sub-penny coins would be hard on the serving class. It would be just like a lot of people to give a waitress a tenth of a cent with a hole in it.

At The Theatres

Today
Broadway: "Curly Top." Proving her versatility with songs and dancing, little Shirley Temple, now on vacation in Hawaii, rings up another triumph in this, her latest flicker that is her show from the opening tick of the camera. Although the plot is trite, Miss Temple is at her best in the mediocre story for it gives her every opportunity to show how simple it is to make a success of any motion picture in which she appears. John Boles and Rochelle Hudson provide the necessary love interest and Jane Darwell is featured. This is a gay, sparkling little show, made worth seeing through the surprising genius of Shirley Temple. A picture for the whole family to see and enjoy.

Orpheum: "Let 'Em Have It." One of the best of the "G" men thrillers is this bloody tale of Department of Justice agents and how they track down their man even though he changes his face through plastic surgery. It's a real thriller, with unlimited gunplay and a general attitude of danger, and it gives a good picture of the scientific way the government tracks down its lawbreakers. Richard Arlen, Bruce Cabot, Virginia Bruce and Alice Brady head the cast.
Kingston: "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." The finest comic on the screen today has a story tailored exclusively to his measure in this hit comedy, and the pantomime and genuine ability of W. C. Fields to perform miracles in humor was never more clearly demonstrated than in this tale of a meek little man of the Caspar Milquetoast variety who gets up enough nerve to attend a wrestling match. This play has everything to make it a real success and the fine support of Kathleen Howard and Mary Brian is invaluable. As it is, the show is a distinct hit, one of the best of the current comedy dramas, and W. C. Fields proves himself to be the outstanding comedian before the cameras at the present time. An added feature of "Night's Bill" is "Amateur Night," a stage show that has grown more popular each week because of the talent displayed.

Tomorrow.
Broadway: "Shanghai." Here's a story of present day China, made a bit melodramatic for entertainment purposes. It has the age old problem of "East is East and West is West" and the ending is rather tragic. The show has plenty of thrilling moments, some fine settings and Charles Boyer, latest cinema sensation, comes along with another fine performance. Others in the cast are Loretta Young, Warner Oland and Alison Skipworth. Good hot weather entertainment.
Orpheum: "Going to Town" and "Fighting to Live." Mae West goes to town in the opening attraction, a typical Western yarn that has to do with the charming of men through the subtle wise crack. "Fighting to Live" is the second feature, a dog story with Captain and Lady. Billy "Joy" Jackson and his amateurs are also a special feature of the program.
Kingston: "The Man Who Knew Too Much" and "People Will Talk." Peter Lorre, the little European acting genius who plays maniacs and murdered with a quiet, frightening realism, is well cast in the British made film. It's a murder mystery, so well done that it will keep any audience nicely terrified. Nova Pilbeam, Edna Best and Leslie Banks are the other featured players. "People Will Talk" is excellent comedy drama, the best play that Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland have ever co-starred together in. It has real comedy and humor in dialogue and situations, and the show hasn't a single dull moment. Lella Hyams and Dean Jagger are also in the cast.

Amateur Night Will Be Held Wednesday, Big Program Ready

Sam Ribey to Act as Master of Ceremonies at American Legion Show in Auditorium—The Program as Arranged—Elmer and His Wife to be Hero for Show.

Every thing is in readiness for the big Amateur Night to be held Wednesday evening in the Municipal Auditorium under the auspices of Kingston Post of the American Legion to raise funds to defray the Legion Drum Corps expenses to the state convention. The program contained a list of 24 acts, and Sam Ribey has been selected to act as master of ceremonies. The winner will be given an audition on the Ray Perkins Amateur Hour on a national network.

For years the mystery of "Where is Elmer?" bothered all vets at state and national conventions of the American Legion. Over a year ago Kingston Post solved the mystery and produced Elmer and presented him to the public.

Elmer has heard about the Amateur Night here Wednesday and has promised to attend and bring his wife "Cynthia" with him. This pair will arrive in Kingston about noon Wednesday and spend the afternoon "doing the town". The antics of the pair will be well worth watching for, as they go out visiting so seldom they really do not know how to behave. However, they promise not to shock any one but will afford plenty of laughs.

Following is the program Wednesday night for the big show:

King Tut's Buckaroos—Bill Billy duet.
Dude Roberts and Andy Schilling—piano and dance.
Robert Crapper, Catskill, N. Y.—musical saw.
The Rev. A. L. Hughes—spirituals.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Ernie Stanley Gardner's "Action factory" is in the Hollywood hills overlooking the film factory where Gardner's detective hero, Perry Mason, is captured on celluloid in the person of Warren William.

"Fiction factory" is what Gardner, a man of medium height with a tanned face and an analytical mind, calls the place. And that is its best description. The small-town lawyer turned writer combines his home and office. He uses dictation machines, and keeps two secretaries busy typing out the stories he reels off into the records.

Likes Freedom

The main reason he is not a practicing lawyer in some big city today—for he had offers—is his loathing for being cooped up in big cities. He does not like to be cooped up at all—and so part of his "fiction factory" is on wheels: two houses-on-wheels that carry him, his wife, secretaries, cook and chauffeur adventuring about the country.

Gardner never went to law school. He just decided to practice law and work in the offices of attorneys for nothing. When he finished his "course" he took the California bar examination and started practicing in Ventura.

For a while, too, he was a salesman with a go-getting promotion concern. Lawyer and salesman, he combines the two professions now. Important in his writing, he considers, is salesmanship. Take his titles, for instance:

His Titles Scan

"I don't like a title unless it scans," he says. "That's good salesmanship. A title that scans intrigues the potential reader. And I don't like inanimate titles. I used one once. The Case of the Counterfeit Eye. But it was hard to write the story—you had the eye there and that was all. Not a title. It suggested nothing further. But 'The Case of the Sleepwalker's Niece' which I'm working on now, should be easy. You have the sleepwalker, and then you wonder what his niece has to do with it. It's animate, and intriguing, and it scans."

Gardner wrote his first Perry Mason—"The Case of the Velvet Claws"—in his law office in three and a half days. He had been selling to "pulp" magazines for seven or eight years before that.

He is cutting down on the "mass production" now, aiming for the "slick paper" journals. But he is not one to forget the "pulp."

As far as pictures are concerned, he seems to be the Case of the Satisfied Scribbler. He likes the movies of his books.

Post's Road To Fame Was A Rocky One

Wiley Post... he died hearing the roar of Motors

By FOSTER HALEY

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

If Wiley Post had been given his choice as to how he should go to join his comrades of the air in that Valhalla where brave spirits meet, he probably would have killed it as it was—the controls of a fast plane in his hands, the roar of a motor in his ears.

Even as a little chap in Grand Plains, Tex., where he was born November 22, 1898, and later in Oklahoma where he made his home, his mother recalled he would much rather "lunker around" with machinery than hoe cotton.

As night follows day this love of machinery led him through a hard apprenticeship to that midnight of July 22, 1933, when the attention of the whole world was focused on him as he stood in the brilliant white lights of Floyd Bennett airport at the end of the first solo flight around the world.

"It Didn't Seem Hard"

The lights showed a short, chunky, grimy little man, a white bandage over the empty eye socket where a piece of steel had gouged out the eye ball 10 years before and given him the money to buy his first plane.

Post was only five years old when the Wrights made their conquest of the air at Kitty Hawk in 1903 and the airplane still was a novelty in Oklahoma when, in 1916, he worked a cotton patch of his own all summer to get the money for a course at an auto mechanics school in Kansas City.

Tried To Join Army

Returning home he attempted unsuccessfully to join the army, then just becoming interested seriously in airplanes as a military weapon. He worked in the oil fields as a mechanic for a time and then, when the war broke out, served in the Student Army Training Corps at the University of Oklahoma.

The war ended, he turned definitely toward the industry which was to bring him to his greatest glory—and death.

He paid a barnstorming pilot $25 to give him the works—a few weeks later joined a barnstorming troupe as wing walker and parachute jumper—$25 a jump—and with two hours' instruction made his first solo flight in an old war-time "Jenny."

Earns Money For Plane

After a few months of barnstorming he returned to the oil fields to earn money to buy his own plane. While driving a link in a heavy chain a piece of steel penetrated his right eye. A surgeon at Oklahoma City removed the eye.

With $240 of the $1,800 he received as compensation for the injury and undeterred by his handicap, he bought an old Canadian plane called a "Canuck crate" and flew it 700 hours on barnstorming trips before he sold it and signed with F. C. Hall—backer of his two world flights—and Powell Briscoe, Oklahoma oil men, as their personal pilot.

It was while on a flight in the old "Canuck crate" with May Laine, his cousin and childhood playmate as a passenger, that he was forced down at Graham, Okla. They had been talking of marriage for some time, decided that day was as good as any other, looked up a justice of the peace and were married.

Hall Buys "Winnie Mae"

Wiley acted as pilot for Hall and Briscoe for a time, but when they withdrew their entry from a proposed Dallas-Hongkong flight in 1927, he joined the Lockheed company in Los Angeles as test pilot.

Hall did not forget him and not having lost his love for aviation, the next year called Post back to fly a new plane he had purchased and named after his daughter, Winnie Mae.

Then began a partnership between man and plane which has become almost as famous as that between Lindbergh and the Spirit of St. Louis.

Carved Simple Epitaph

Post and "Winnie Mae" won the national air derby from Los Angeles to Chicago and $7,500, flew the world with Gatty. Few it again "solo" made two altitude flights in the sub-stratosphere and four unsuccessful attempts to fly across the country at that altitude.

Aviation leaders agree that the industry lost one of its most intrepid figures when Post died in the cabin of his new ship in Alaska.

They say he craved no other epitaph but this:

"Wiley Post—Aviator."

Buchanan Promoted To Top Sergeant

The last issue of the United States Army Recruiting News, a magazine devoted to listing the activities of the regular army, has this to say in regard to a local boy: "Sergeant Robert Buchanan of Company D, 19th Infantry, was promoted recently to the grade of first sergeant in his organization. Sergeant Buchanan is a native of Kingston, N. Y., and first went to Hawaii in 1930 at which time he was assigned to his present organization. He was promoted to sergeant on February 17, 1931."

Sergeant Buchanan is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Buchanan of West Chestnut street.

Post's First World-Flight Talk

It Was To Reporter In Hot, Dusty Oil Field

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington (AP)—Few of the incidents in Wiley Post's life can give a better idea of his quiet, determined nature than the manner in which his name was linked first with the round-the-world flight.

It happened one hot day late in the spring of 1930 when I received a phone call from the oil field south of Oklahoma City where I was working on the Oklahoma City Times.

"Say, you want to see a de luxe taxi?" said the voice of an oil driller I had met in the field. "Come on out to Frank Hall's office."

Hall was an independent oil producer who was piling up a fortune in a spectacular fashion. He had two enthusiasms; his little daughter, Winnie Mae, and aviation.

The "Winnie Mae"

I had a notion the "taxi" would be such a beautiful bird. When I trudged up to the office through the dust there stood a plane the like of which never had been seen in Oklahoma; gleaming white with bands of deep orchid decorating the slender, tapering body. The comfortable cabin was upholstered in orchid leather. On the side of the fuselage in orchid letters was painted the name, "Winnie Mae."

Hall emerged from around one side, grinning, and saying, "How do you like my new oil field taxi?"

"Looks like it might do," I grinned back. "Who's driving?"

"Got me one of the best little pilots in the country—oh, Wiley!"

Hall shouted. Around the fuselage appeared a stocky, sunburned man with a pair of powerful shoulders and square head that would have looked more in place on a man a foot taller. He had a white patch over one eye and he was so sunburned that his skin matched his khaki shirt and breeches.

Big Talk

"Well, it looks pretty," I said of the plane, "but will it fly?"

"She'll fly," said Post stroking the plane. His voice sounded as if I had pitched mud at the flag.

"What's more," said Hall, and this time he paused for dramatic effect, "those two are going round-the-world as soon as we get squared away."

Just Another Story?

Later, back in the city room of The Times, the city editor grunted, "Better cut that round-the-world story. The woods are full of them."

"Not like this guy," I said. "There's something about the way he talks." So the story ran, but it raised very little comment even among the home-town folks. Hall and Post were surprising for their ilk. They went about their plans with no concern whatever about any more news stories.

The next time I saw Post he arrived with Harold Gatty at the 1931 air races in Cleveland. They had just finished their round-the-world dash, and the autograph hunters were dogging their steps. I found Post, taciturn and sun-burned as ever hiding out from the crowd behind the body of a plane.

"Looks like you had your excitement," I said. Post grinned, peeked back at the crowded grandstands and then ducked his head.

"Nothing like this squirrel cage," he said. "Give me a plane and you take the crowd."

Catholic Bishops Met In Secret In Germany

Fulda, Germany, Aug. 20 (AP).—The German Catholic bishops met in secret today to prepare a counter attack on the Nazi drive against "political Catholicism."

The conference, described by the Nazis as one that "will have a decisive influence on the relationship of the church to the National Socialist state," was regarded by Catholics as the most important assemblage of Bishops in recent years.

The entire German Catholic hierarchy—three Cardinals, three archbishops and nineteen bishops, presided over by Senior Cardinal Bertram of Breslau—discussed what Catholics call the "serious situation facing the German Church."

The bishops met in this old Catholic center of learning annually over St. Boniface's tomb in the cathedral. They sit for three days, in private except for the opening and closing sermons.

One of the main questions under discussion was how to protect the clergy from the order of Hermann Goerring, head of the secret police, for the arrests of priests who "misuse their authority and their holy position for political ends."

Washington Stars Score Early To Trim City Leaguers, 4-2

The City League All Stars spotted the Washington Stars four runs in their game at the Athletic Field, Monday evening, and the handicap proved too much for the City Leaguers to overcome and went down to defeat by the score of 4 to 2. The largest assemblage of fans, approximately 2,000, was on hand to witness the game and saw a good brand of ball and some brilliant pitching.

Johnny Cullen who was called to the mound after Eddie Scherer had been blasted from that spot, was the bright light of the game. He took up the burden after Scherer had been found for three runs and had two runners on the base paths to contend with, but went right to work like a veteran and after one run crossed the plate he was the master. He was in trouble after the first inning but always had enough in reserve to save himself.

While Cullen was doing his stuff, Jimmy Adams, the Washington hurler, also was putting on a wonderful performance. In fact, the City Leaguers were handcuffed by his slant until the last frame. He set the locals down with three messy singles, which were made by Van Etten, Dawkins and Rider. He also struck out 12.

The last inning provided plenty of thrills and for a time it looked like the locals would pull the game out of the bag, but Adams was not to be beaten. Gene Rider started the inning off with a single through the infield and Joyce was given a walk. Martin, batting for Cullen, hit one to the second baseman, who fumbled allowing Rider to score and the stage was all set for the locals. Murphy was hit by a pitched ball to load the sacks, but Mitchell forced Joyce at the plate and Sickler and Dawkins fanned the breezes.

Eddie Scherer was unable to locate the plate for White, the first man to face him in the opening stanza, and the Washington Stars were off on their winning rally. Gore put White on third with a single to center field and a wild pitch allowed him to register. McGee, also singled to the same spot and scored a moment later with Gore when Essex hit another single. An error by Sickler on Boelter's grounder and Copper's single gave the Washington boys their fourth run.

The City Leaguers also scored in their half of the first. Stump was safe on Kennedy's error, stole second and race home on Dawkins' single to right field.

Berardi A. C. Meet Formosts In Crucial Game

The Berardi A. C. can clinch the second half of the City League by defeating Formosts at the Athletic Field this evening. The game also is important to the Formosts for a victory for them would give them a tie with the Berardis and necessitate a playoff to decide an opponent for Hercules, first half champions.

Julius Chick who has won four consecutive games for the Berardis, will again grace the mound for the leaders. George Zadanu will be stationed behind the bat.

The Formosts have three pitchers they can call on. 'Pucker' Davis may get the call as he has won three games for the Parkers. Jack Dodge and Pres Knight are the other two hurlers. Gene Rider will be the receiver.

SPORT SLANTS

Interest in the little ring warriors has been practically nil this summer because the heavyweights have completely monopolized the picture. But with new faces springing into the athletic limelight fight fans are beginning to sit up and take notice of the little fellows.

This is particularly true of the lightweight division, long one of the most popular cases. In the 135-pound class Al Roth, rugged little Bronx brawler, punched out a surprise victory over the highly touted Davey Day, stablemate of welterweight Champion Barney Ross and one of the leading challengers for the crown now held by Tony Canzoneri.

As a result of his gaining the judges' decision in most convincing fashion, Roth stepped right to the head of the parade of little men who challenge the veteran Tony's right to the lightweight championship robes. Unless the New York State Athletic Commission pulls a favorite son out of thin air Roth will meet Canzoneri early in the fall.

Early Punch Gets Day

Short and stocky, with the powerful back of an iron worker, the little Bronxite is a busy battler in the ring. Against Day he showed a right that packed plenty of dynamite. A few seconds after the opening gong he felled the tall, emaciated-looking Day into an opening and almost dropped the Chicago boy with a sizzling right and had Day in a very bad shape when the gong ended the first session. Day came back but never fully recovered from the first punch he took and could not figure a way of escaping Roth's damaging right.

Roth took up fighting when he knocked out an amateur champion in an informal back yard sparring match. He showed some promise as a featherweight but it was not until he grew into a full-fledged lightweight that he found his full effectiveness. His victory over Leonard Del Genio, picked by Jimmy Johnston as the coming lightweight champion, started him on his way to the head of the parade of lightweight challengers.

Roth, Frankie Killek, Cleto Locatelli, Lou Ambers and Wesley Ramey just about comprise the field of little fellows who will fight it out for a chance at the lightweight title. Ramey is entitled to special consideration, perhaps, on the strength of a victory scored over Tony Canzoneri in an overweight match shortly before Tony lost his crown to Barney Ross.

Judith's "Flight Talk"

Ross may find a bit of action in the near future now that Harry Dubinsky of Chicago has been nominated by the Illinois Commissions as its No. 1 challenger for the welterweight title held by Ross. There doesn't seem to be anyone else capable of arguing Ross' right to wearing the crown unless Jimmy McLarin decides he wants another chance to regain the championship.

Jack Doyle, the Irish crooner, musician, actor and fighter, has returned to the ring and done right well in his first three bouts in this country, scoring early knockouts in each.

Jack came over from Ireland with no great inclination to exhibit his wares in the ring. He headed for Hollywood and dreamed of a career in the movies. And then the Kilmoney adonis married Judith Allen, a former Folies beauty with a bit of experience in the movies.

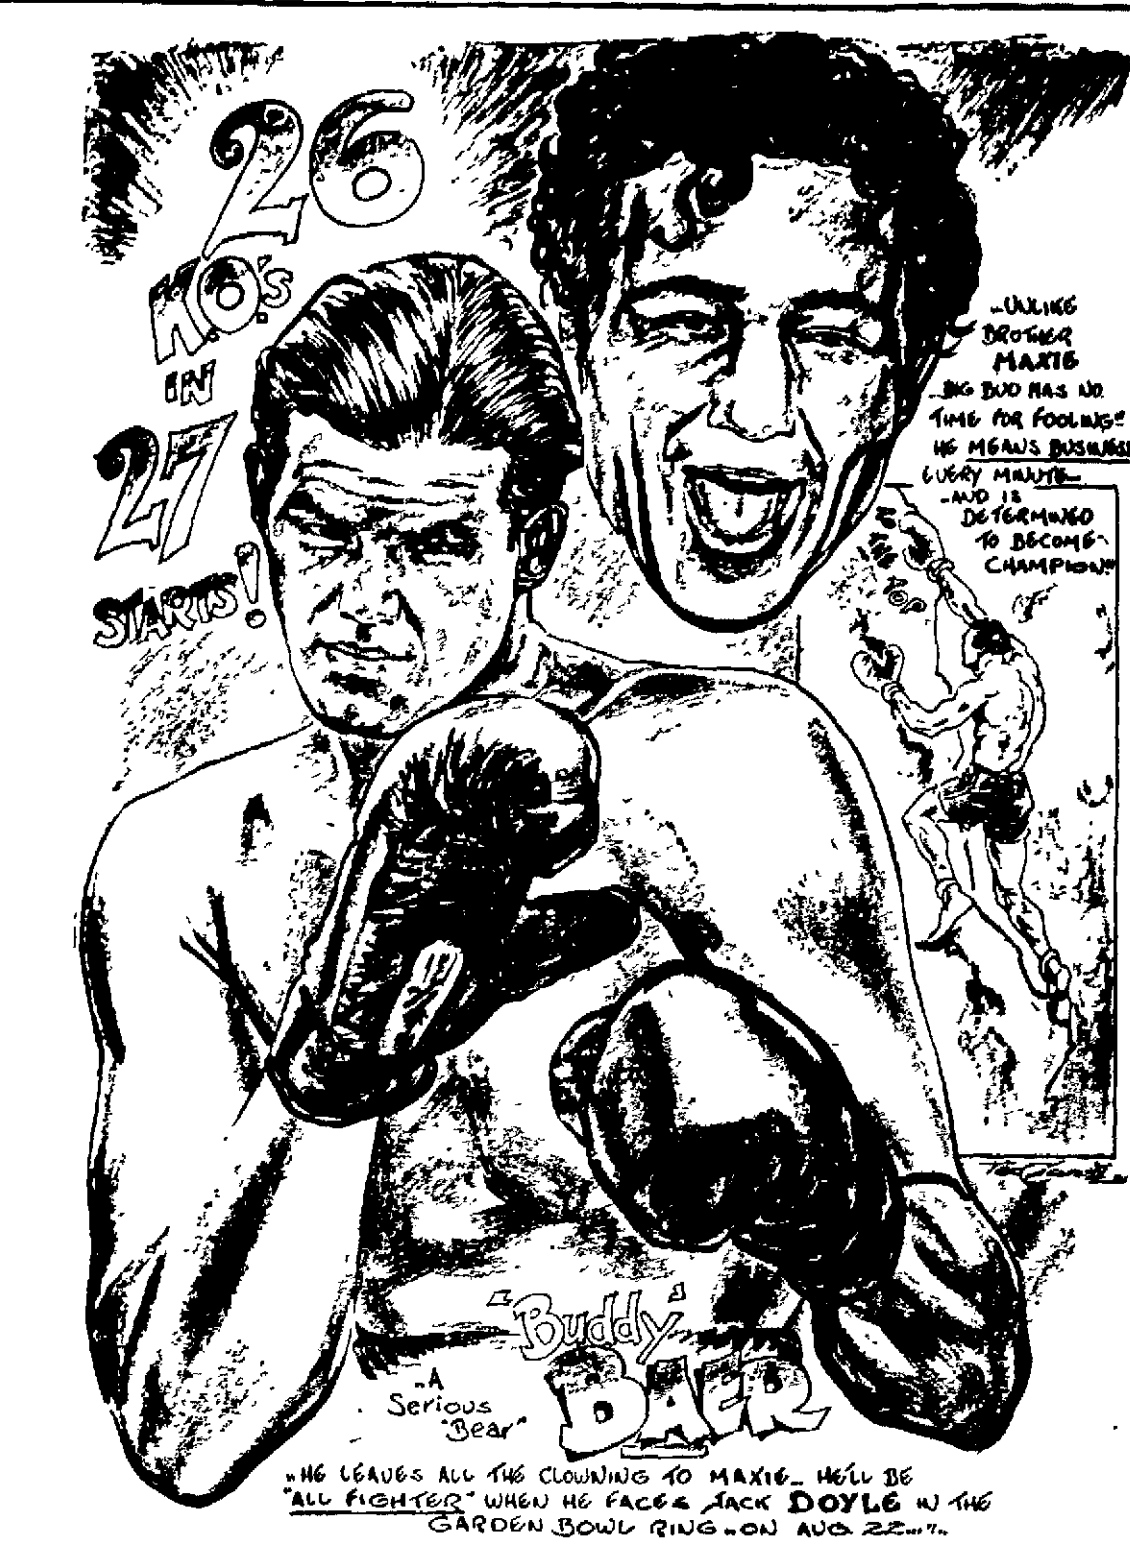

Mrs. Doyle decided that her Jack was wasting his time trying to follow a movie career and decided that he would fare better by returning to the ring. She lends her moral support by sitting at ringside whenever Jack fights and gives the fans an added thrill by sending her husband off to work in the ring with a big kiss. This little stunt never fails to get a big response from the ring-siders.

Max Very Impressive In Training. Nothing Wrong With His Hands

Speculator, N. Y., Aug. 20 (AP)—If Joe Louis is in the house he might know the worst now just as well as later.

There is nothing wrong with Max Baer's hands and, if the truth of that great pugilistic mystery is to be known, there never was much wrong.

In an atmosphere so quiet that it is almost deafening, totally foreign to his former surroundings, Baer has been training here a week for his battle with the sensational negro, September 24.

He won't start boxing until Friday. He isn't going to box a dozen rounds a day as he did before losing his world heavyweight championship to Jimmy Braddock in a terrible exhibition in June.

He's going to box four rounds a day at the most, but he's going 'all out' every second he has big gloves on.

Baer at the moment is the most impressive Baer of all the daily years.

"I'm not kidding myself," he said today. "I'm not going to miss. I'll fool everybody again, but in a different way from the night I lost to Braddock. I'll flatten the guy like I flattened Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera."

"I'll be the biggest guy in the fight game then. I'll have stopped the black menace. I'll get another shot at Braddock and I'll knock him out, too, the next time."

Baer weighs about 217 pounds. He has five weeks to get about 10 extra pounds from his waistline. He has been hitting the big bag with terrific power.

Doctors in Baltimore told him what to do for the only real injury he suffered, a bruised knuckle on his left hand. He wears a special pad over it in training.

Nature Provides Speedway For Briton's Record Try

By JOHN L. WHEELER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah (AP)—Mother Nature may not have had Sir Malcolm Campbell in mind when thousands of years ago she laid out one of the world's finest race courses in a mountain-locked northwestern Utah basin, but the marble-like vastness of the Bonneville Salt Flats seems to have been created for the titled Britisher and his thundering Bluebird.

The daring Englishman will roll his giant car onto the flats the second week in September for a race against time—a race in which he hopes to reach his long-hoped-for goal of 300 miles per hour.

And there is every likelihood Sir Malcolm will attain this terrific speed. In the parlance of a gambler, it's a natural. Only some unforeseen accident will keep Bluebird and its driver from roaring up to the 300-mile-per-hour mark, such noted race drivers as John Cobb of London and Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake City agree.

Other Marks Made On Salt Course

Cobb and Jenkins have shattered world marks right and left this summer. They used cars smaller than Campbell's Bluebird and they sought endurance records. First, Jenkins put his machine through a 24-hour endurance drive and collected virtually every record available in the bracket in which he raced. He pushed his car up to 150 miles at times and set a 24-hour average of well over 100. Soon afterward Cobb came over from England and grabbed all of Jenkins' records.

The astonishing salt flats were deposited thousands of years ago by the receding waters of Lake Bonneville. All that remains of the lake today is that body of brine now called Great Salt Lake. The glaring expanse of level rock salt extends over a basin 42 miles long and 17 miles across, and ranges in thickness from two inches to five feet. Although water is known to exist under the crust in some parts of the basin to a depth of several feet, the hard surface will support tons of weight, and racers have nothing to fear from the plaster-like course.

Weather a Minor Hazard

Unlike Florida's Daytona beach, where Campbell sought unsuccessfully to reach his cherished goal, the salt flats do not depend upon tides, the moon or the wind for the "right" condition. Even rain will not spoil the course for Sir Malcolm. The worst drawback will not make it soggy or rough. The blazing sun of a September sky would dry the track within 48 hours.

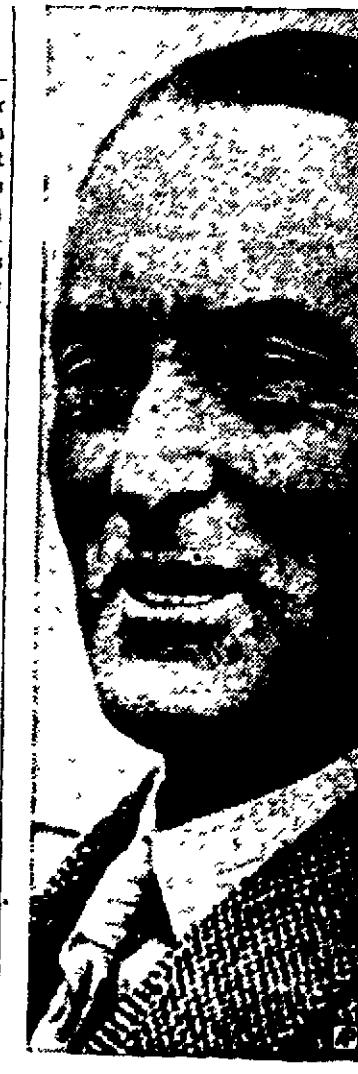

Possibly the only unfavorable condition which might slow up the big Bluebird would come from humidity. Dampness in the air has a tendency to draw the subsurface water through the rock-like crust and make the course "slushy." However, this condition has very seldom existed, and when it has, a few days have seen it return to solid form.

STANDINGS

By ANDY CLARKE (Associated Press Sports Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals turned their backs yesterday, and the Giants and the Cubs sneaked one over on them.

Fresh from their series conquest over the Giants, the gang of Frankie Frisch went to Lewiston, Me., to take an extra slam at the staggering Boston Braves in an exhibition game while their two chief competitors stayed in schedule and made hay.

The Giants increased their lead over the second-place St. Louis club to three full games by whipping the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in ten innings, while the Cubs moved into a virtual tie with the doghouse boys by shading the Phillies 2-1.

Dick Bartell struck the deciding blow for the Giants after they had tied the score in the eighth inning. With the bases loaded, Bartell beat out a hit to short while Ott dashed home with the ball game.

Babe Herman led the Red attack with three singles and a homer.

Things looked bad for the Cubs for the first seven innings. For six innings Joe Bowman pitched superb ball and in the seventh he allowed but two harmless hits. In the eighth, an error by Mickey Haslin, double by O'Dea and a walk to Augie Galan loaded the bases. Sylvester Johnson was called to the rescue. Billy Herman caught one of his pitches for a single and the winning runs went over the plate.

The Yankees turned the tables on the league-leading Detroit Tigers 7-5. The defeat cut the Tigers' margin over the Yanks to seven games.

An overflow crowd of 32,000 saw George Selkirk lick the Tigers virtually single-handed. He was instrumental in all of the Yankees' runs. He connected for five hits, including two ground rule doubles, in as many times at bat, drove in four runs and scored three himself.

The crowd got a thrill in the ninth inning when, with two on base, Hank Greenberg went to the plate. A homer would mean the ball game but, like the Casey of the famous tap room ode, Greenberg struck out.

The Athletics and the Chicago White Sox divided a doubleheader, the White Sox taking the opener 7-3 and the Athletics the afterpiece 8-4. The even split dropped the fourth-place Chicagoans 'o within one-half percentage point of the second division.

Bob Johnson hit his 22nd homer and Foxx, his 23rd.

Hal Trosky's homer with the bases loaded in the eighth helped the Cleveland Indians defeat the Washington Senators 11-5. The Indians put the game on ice in the eighth when they scored six runs on three hits.

SOFTBALL RESULTS

Chevrolet 9, Recreations 5.

With Ben Toffel allowing the Recreations eight scattered hits at the Kingston Fair Grounds last night, the Chevrolet moved into a tie for first place with the Apple Knockers in the city league by virtue of a 9-5 victory.

The Chevies opened up with a seven run barrage in the first three innings before the losers had scored a single tally. The 7-0 lead proved as much for the Recreations although they garnered two runs in the fourth and three more in the fifth frame. The winners scored two more in the fifth to clinch the game.

To start the fireworks in the first, Van Buren reached first on an error and Mathia sent him to second with a single. Flemming then smacked a hard triple and Geoghan singled for three runs. In the fourth, Van Buren and Toffel singled. A walk and error followed and Herick then slammed out a two bagger and was left on second after four runs had crossed the platter. Bott and Geoghan chalked up the last two runs in the fifth.

Parks, Bott and Bailey accounted for the two runs in the fourth for the Recreations. They found Toffel for four hits in the next frame for three more runs but their efforts were stopped at this point.

Score by innings:
Recreations 0 0 2 2 0 0—5 8 4
Chevrolet 3 0 4 0 2 0—9 5 1

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Man Found Shot Through The Head

New York, a Brooklyn hi-jacker, who apparently was killed by other gangsters and his body wrapped in canvas, weighted down with heavy weights and thrown in the river. In the case of Silba identification was made very difficult because of the condition of the body which had apparently been in the water for several weeks. However, the prints made by Chief Wood were sufficiently well-defined to allow the Department of Justice in Washington to make an identification of the man who had a criminal record.

Clear Fingerprints.

In the case of the latest murder victim the fingerprints were very clear and it is hoped that identification can be made. In the event the fingerprints cannot be identified there are laundry marks on the clothing which are now being checked up and which may be of assistance in locating the man's folks and his home.

In the pocket of the dead man was found 35 cents and a key. Outside the bullet wound and the black eye there were no other marks of violence on the body.

No connection has been made between the Silba murder which still remains unsolved and the second murder which now faces the authorities.

District Attorney Clegg B. Murray, who has taken personal charge of the investigation, stated today that there were no new developments in the mystery and that pending examination of the fingerprints at Washington the identity of the victim probably would not be made although a check-up was now under way in New York city and also at places in New Jersey. Whether any particular suspects were being looked for it was not stated. The Troopers and sheriff were busy during the day making further examinations at the places where the body was found for some clue and also interviewing persons of the locality in an effort to learn whether anyone had been observed about the place prior to the finding of the body.

Fire prevention should not be regarded as somebody else's business. Foresight and caution impose the same responsibility upon us all.

Summer Cottage Destroyed by Fire

A cottage owned by J. J. Funk and occupied by summer people from Staten Island was destroyed by fire Sunday evening about 9 o'clock. The cottage was located on the road running from the South Ashokan boulevard southwest toward Hurley. The origin of the fire is not definitely known but the occupants believe it started from a stove. The blaze could be seen from a long distance and attracted a great number of cars to the scene. Volunteers worked to save surrounding cottages and with the aid of Forest Rangers the fire was prevented from spreading. Lack of wind aided in the fight and prevented the flames communicating with nearby buildings. The cottage was completely destroyed.

Leon J. Cadore Held For Grand Larceny

Brooklyn, Aug. 20 (AP)—Leon J. Cadore, former pitcher for the Brooklyn National League baseball club and son-in-law of Charles A. Ebbets, founder of the club, was arrested today on a charge of grand larceny.

He was taken into custody on a warrant issued by Magistrate Vincent Sweehey. The complaint against him was issued by Louise Curtis, dietitian at the Kings county hospital, who charged Cadore failed to return to her four shares of American Telephone & Telegraph Company stock which she turned over to him in September, 1933, in a securities transaction.

In recent years, Cadore has been in the investment business.

Cadore was to be arraigned later today in the Prospect Park Magistrate's court. His arrest followed an investigation of Miss Curtis' charges by the attorney general's office.

Cadore joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1915 and for years was one of the best right-handed pitchers in the game.

In 1920, he pitched for the Dodgers in the longest game on record, against the Boston Braves. The game ended in a 26 inning 1 to 1 tie. His opponent on the mound was Joe Oeschger.

FLAMING DARIAS POSSIBLE SOURCE OF SUGAR IN U. S.

San Francisco, Aug. 20 (AP)—Fields abounding with brilliant dahlias may be the source of a sizeable portion of America's future commercial sugar supply, the American Chemical Society in convention here was informed today.

A method of producing for market sugar twice as sweet as that now commonly used has been developed by Dr. Wray M. Riegner and Prof. Leroy W. Weatherly and research associates at the University of Southern California.

Commercial production already has become a practical possibility, the scientists say, as the result of the working out of 2 years of manufacturing 20 tons comparable with that of best sugar.

Professor Weatherly pointed out that due to the difference in growing seasons, dahlia sugar could be manufactured in cane or beet sugar plants during ordinarily idle seasons.

He said economic possibilities of dahlia sugar are enhanced by its dietary properties. Those on reducing diets, the university experimenters declared, would find it as sweet as with less caloric.

Weert DeGroot, aged 75, died very suddenly at the home of his sister, Mrs. Hansen, at Fish Creek, on Saturday night. Dr. B. W. Gifford was called but Mr. DeGroot was dead upon the doctor's arrival. Coroner N. R. Lasher was also called and gave the cause of death as being due to a cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. DeGroot, whose home was in New York, is survived by two sons and a sister. He had been at Fish Creek the past four months. The body was shipped to the city and funeral services will be held on Wednesday. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

George P. Dubois, 51, died on Sunday, at his home on Sands avenue, Milton, after an illness of several months. Born in New Point, Milton, on January 24, 1854, a son of Daniel Peter Dubois, and Phoebe Ann Jenkins Dubois, he had resided there all his life, and was formerly engaged as a fruit grower, retiring 25 years ago. For 46 years he was an alder and trustee of the Presbyterian church and for 23 years member of Milton Grange. Survivors are his wife, Ida Perrott Dubois, a daughter, Mrs. Oliver P. Kent, and four grandchildren, Kenneth, Kathleen, Perry and James Kent all of Milton, and two brothers, Dewitt Dubois of Highland, and Charles Dubois of Poughkeepsie. Funeral services were held today in the home, conducted by the Rev. Joseph Faizre of Wallkill. Burial was in Highland cemetery.

BUCKMAN—In this city, Monday, August 19, 1935, Charles P. Buckman, beloved husband of Mary Cole.

Funeral from the late home, 59 Hooker street, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Large Share of Bills Started by Roosevelt Still Awaiting Action

Washington, Aug. 20 (AP)—A large share of President Roosevelt's legislative program still awaits final action as congress points toward adjournment.
The record of activities on Capitol Hill shows that four major measures backed by the administration in prosecuting its social, economic or relief program have received final congressional approval since the session began last January.
They were:
The $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill.
The social security bill, embracing unemployment insurance, old age pensions and aids to child welfare.
The Wagner labor disputes bill, setting up a board to supervise collective bargaining matters.
The amendments to broaden and bolster the authority of the agricultural adjustment administration.
The 1935 bank reform bill, representing a compromise between administration officials who believe control of money and credit should be centralized in Washington and senators who think along more conservative lines, received final congressional approval yesterday.
Left for action in one congressional stage or another are these parts of the Roosevelt program:
The $258,000,000 tax bill—in conference between senate and house to straighten out differences.
The Cuffey bill setting up a "little NRA" for the coal industry—in senate after passing house.
The legislation to regulate or abolish Public Utility Holding Companies—in conference.
The amendments to broaden the Tennessee valley authority's scope—in conference.
The bill to create an alcohol control commission—in conference.
The bill to prevent law suits against the government growing out of its gold clause policy.
Thus far in the session, Roosevelt forces have suffered only one complete defeat. That was in the senate's rejection of a resolution for adherence to the world court.
On the other hand, they achieved a victory when the senate sustained the president's veto of the Fatman bill to pay the soldiers' bonus immediately. Previously the house overrode the veto.
Still in conference is one of the most violent congressional disputes in years—the controversy over the Roosevelt proposal for mandatory abolition of all "unnecessary" Utility Holding Companies.

Tray Of Diamonds Is Found Missing

The clerks in the Edwards jewelry store on Wall street last night at closing time placed the trays containing the diamond rings in the safe.

This morning when the safe was opened one of the trays was discovered to have disappeared. The retail value of the rings was placed at $1,250. The police department was notified and made an investigation. The police say that the investigation disclosed no indication of the store having been broken into or that the safe had been tampered with. How the tray of diamonds disappeared appears to be a mystery.
